Policy #1 Recommendation

Achievable Local Housing

ISSUE

The 2016 Regional Housing Study shows an unmet need for about 12,160 housing units to serve the local workforce of the region.¹ Of those units, over half (57%) are needed for households earning moderate incomes (> 80% AMI) or above.

There are no federal and very few state and local subsidy programs which provide financial support for housing programs serving households earning more than 80% of the area Median income (AMI) and there are no government subsidy programs for the Above Moderate (> 120% AMI) income level households. In North Tahoe-Truckee, a household of four needs to make more than 195% AMI to afford an average market-rate home priced at about $550,000 as of 2016. In order to begin to serve a range of housing needs in the area, a new way of defining and addressing the need is required.

RECOMMENDATION

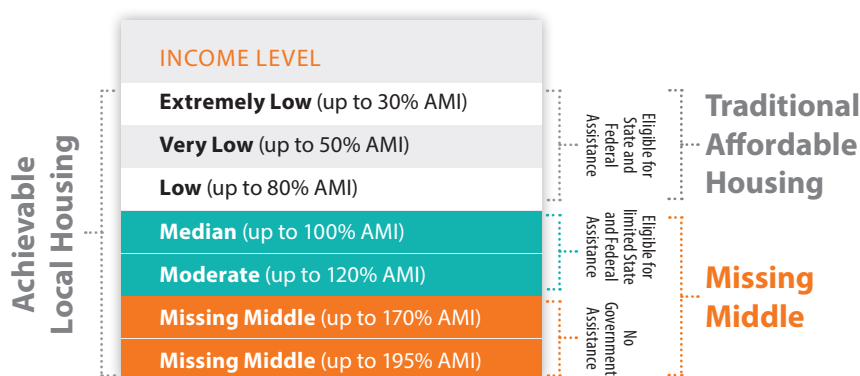

The Mountain Housing Council of Tahoe Truckee is putting forward this Policy Recommendation to more accurately define the range of housing needs in the area as Achievable Local Housing. This means that along with the traditional affordability levels of very low and low (up to 80% AMI), the new definition expands affordability levels to include households earning between 80% – 195% AMI levels. Adoption of the new definition will improve the region’s ability to address the true housing needs for a wider range of income levels.

AREA MEDIAN INCOME (AMI)

The household income for the median — or middle — household in a region. The US Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) publishes this data annually for regions; data varies by household size. The California Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) makes minor adjustments based on regional factors to these numbers prior to publishing.

IMPLICATIONS

It is up to each of the 25 Mountain Housing Council members to implement the Achievable Local Housing Policy Recommendation as they see fit. The goal of this Policy Recommendation is to catalyze local solutions to serve housing needs where state and federal funding falls short.

RATIONALE

Housing solutions for Lower income earners ($\leq 80\%$ AMI) remain a priority for the region, as these households will essentially never be able to purchase a home with affordability gaps exceeding \$300,000. Researchers at the University of California Berkeley studying the San Francisco Bay Area housing market found that although subsidized housing has twice the impact of market-rate units, both market-rate and subsidized housing work together to reduce displacement pressures at the regional level. The findings support the need to produce more housing at all levels of affordability in strong-market regions like the North Tahoe-Truckee Region to ease housing pressures. When there is a lack of housing relative to demand for housing, prices for all types of housing rise.²

The Mountain Housing Council Policy Brief provides more in-depth analysis of the challenge in our region and justification for the recommendation that local jurisdictions adopt a new definition of Achievable Local Housing to include moderate and above moderate income households.

USE OF THE POLICY RECOMMENDATION

Adoption of the new definition by each of the Council member jurisdictions will require separate and specific implementation. Approval of the Policy Recommendation by the Mountain Housing Council does not legally obligate any of the Council member jurisdictions to implement the Policy Recommendation.
