Director of Aviation

Waitlist movement is starting to take place as new tenants are put into hangars post snow damage repairs. Progress is being made with our vendor in developing an on-line reservation system for both TTAD overnight hangar rentals, and AirB&B style rentals. A beta version of this product should be available by early Dec, with hopes to utilize over the holidays. KTRK was featured in Flying Magazine with a 6 page spread titled, “A Case Study in General Aviation Innovation.” We are closing out the year with 454 attendees at FS seminars with an average of 38 pilots per seminar.; this has been a very successful first year.

Operations

October operations were up slightly from recent years but with fewer turboprops than last year. Year-to-date operations are up about 4% from last year. The FAA performed a flight check and recertified the VASI on Runway 20.

Fly Safe

November’s Fly Safe event concluded the 2024 lineup with a talk on winter weather hazards to aviation featuring NWS Aviation Program Manager Chris Johnston and TRK Supervisor Sarah Person. The seminar culminated with a unified message to pilots not to push the weather this winter.

Hangars and Wait List

Changes To the waitlist numbers are due to individuals coming off the list after the update process either by self removal or a non-response, and placements from the wait list as hangars have come back online after the completion of the repair work. Displaced tenants have been able to return to their original hangar. This trend will continue until the waitlist reopens which is expected to be after the board has discussed policy updates as part of the overall proposed PMCD edits and changes.

Large-T (48' door)	11	12	1
